Barrow House, near Keswick, Cumberland.

The Summer School will hold its ninth session in the Lake District at Barrow House, which the Committee rented and furnished in 1912. Barrow House is situated on the east side of Derwentwater, about two miles south of Keswick. It occupies an elevated position, whence the grounds slope down to the margin of the lake, with a landing-stage, bathing place, and the site for an encampment. On this side is the tennis lawn and a fine walled-in vegetable garden. Behind the house the land rises abruptly, and a steep and winding path leads through the woods past the very beautiful and well-known Barrow Falls to the mountains, which here rise to about 1,500 feet. To the north a woodland path leads to a stone building called the "Fort." A large area of land south of the house has been planned as an old English garden, and is a feature of the estate, with its paths winding their way through rockeries and beds stocked with a great variety of flowering plants, ferns, and shrubs.

A large area of land south of the house has been planned as an old English garden, and is a feature of the estate, with its paths winding their way through rockeries and beds stocked with a great variety of flowering plants, ferns, and shrubs.

Barrow House is a well-built, roomy eighteenth century house, which is well adapted for the purposes of a Summer School. The Lectures will be given in the open air or in the common room, which is exceptionally large, being capable of seating over 100 people. In addition to the drawing room there is an excellent library for students and also a smoking room. From all the front rooms the views of the Lake and distant mountains are very fine, and the rooms at the back look out on to the fells and get a peep of Scafell and the neighbouring heights.

Special attention has been paid to the sanitation of the house, and all has been put in perfect order. The drainage system has been completely remodelled and laid out in the most modern way on lines suggested by the Summer School Committee, and to the satisfaction of the Sanitary Authority. The water supply is ample and very soft and pure, coming directly from the moors to the house.

There will be in all accommodation for about sixty-five residents in the house and the encampment, but for those wishing to join the School as non-residents suitable hotels and lodgings can be found in the neighbourhood.

The aim of the School is to bring together workers in the various grades of Social and Socialist work for mutual intercourse, and to afford opportunities for courses of lectures, debates, and conversation dealing with the most modern problems of Sociology and Economics. But while study is one great object of the School, it is not forgotten that recreation and rest will be needed by those who come there. This locality has, therefore, been chosen on account of its being an excellent centre for mountaineering, walking, and lake excursions; picnics and organised outings will be arranged once or twice a week.

The outdoor recreations will include tennis, croquet, bathing, boating, and fishing. Golf can be obtained at the links of the Keswick Golf Club. Drives and motor excursions can also be arranged for parties.

The organised programme of the School will begin on Saturday, July 31st. Barrow House will, however, be open for guests from June 1st to July 23rd, on special terms, which may be had from the Secretary, Fabian Society, 25, Tothill Street, Westminster, S.W. From July 24th to July 30th, Barrow House has been taken by the Independent Labour Party. Terms for this period may be had from Mr. Francis Johnson, Independent Labour Party, St. Bride's House, Salisbury Square, London, E.C.
